

Payment

Position Statement

As eConsult services expand across Canada, new payment models are needed to ensure providers are appropriately remunerated.

What is eConsult?

An eConsult service is an online application that supports prompt, secure communication between primary care providers (PCP) and specialists. PCPs log on and submit a question concerning a patient's care. Specialists respond with advice, recommendations for referral, or requests for additional info.

Remuneration for Providing eConsult Services

Payment for eConsult services varies between services, clinics, and jurisdictions. Different models have been attempted, including fee-for-service, session fees, and salaried models. On the payer side, the rate for eConsult varies between jurisdictions, with some provinces/territories having adopted fee codes for eConsult (see Table).

Some eConsult services remunerate providers using their own system (e.g. Champlain eConsult BASE™ pays most specialists $220/hour prorated to time spent completing a case, with some variation based on individual payment models). As eConsult services become more common, a more concrete, streamlined approach will be necessary to support clear and reasonable remuneration strategies.

Recommendations/Key Considerations

Policymakers and innovators must work together to develop new policies that clearly outline how health care providers are paid for eConsults. Key steps include:

- Developing a consistent set of fee codes for eConsult, which providers can use to bill the provincial/federal government as they do for other services. For guidance, look to provinces that have already established fee codes for eConsult services (e.g. Alberta).
- Encouraging consistency between jurisdictions. Creation of a national set of fee codes may raise significant policy challenges, but coordination between provinces/territories would facilitate eConsult's use across borders.
- Accounting for interjurisdictional eConsults by adopting a "payment follows patient" policy, with the patient's home jurisdiction ultimately responsible for covering the cost of their care.
- Engaging ministries of health, medical associations, and regulatory colleges from participating provinces/territories to create a consistent approach to provider remuneration.
